“WOMAN ON A MISSION.”

Even as a child growing up in Italy, she was enthralled by stories of missionaries, and so grew her dream to be a missionary to China. But God had other plans for Frances. She would in fact become a missionary, and a highly effective one, but it would not be to the East but to the West that she would go.

Her dream was prompted by a deep devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus and by the great Jesuit missionary, St Francis Xavier. Indeed, when she took her religious vows she chose Xavier as her religious name.

It was Pope Leo XIII, a friend and confidante, who exhorted her “go West” and sail to New York City where thousands of Italian migrants were living in ghettos, enduring great hardships, and in great need of her care. So, West she went in 1889 to the USA.

She was a teacher by training, but her ministry to immigrants included not only schools, catechism classes, and orphanages, but teacher training and hospitals. Soon, requests for her assistance came from all over the world. She would begin a task, set it on its course, then leave it in the hands of her sisters and move on to her next mission. Though she suffered poor health throughout her life and numerous difficulties and disappointments along the way, her unswerving goal was to spread the love of Jesus' Heart through prayer, example and the missionary work of her sisters.

When she died in December 1917 at the age of 67, the Order of sisters she founded – the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart of Jesus – had more than one thousand sisters working in ministries in the USA, South America, Central America, Europe and England. Today, the Cabrini ministries include a wide variety of social, educational, and health apostolates, spread even more widely across six continents and 16 countries throughout the world, including Cabrini Health in Melbourne (where the sisters came in 1948), and Ethiopia and Swaziland in Africa.

Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini was a remarkable woman in so many ways, combining a keen intelligence, business acumen, and organisational ability with an indomitable spirit, dauntless courage and deep faith, true to her motto, “I can do all things in Him who strengthens me” (Phil 4:13).

In recognition of her holiness and service to humanity she was canonised by Pope Pius XII in 1946 and, in 1950, proclaimed Patron Saint of Immigrants.

As we celebrate the centenary of her death this year, there are now even more immigrants and refugees in dire need across the world. St Francis Xavier Cabrini inspires and indeed urges us to attend generously to their needs in whatever way we can and without delay. As she saw so clearly, “Today is the time for love not to be hidden but become active, vibrant and true.”
